

If My Clay Could Sing...

It would sing of white petals.

It would sing of green leaves.

It would sing of bending,
winding branches.

It would sing of blooming in spring.

It would sing of dressing the mountains in white.

It would sing of dogwoods.